Tulsa Security Task Force Increases Patrols Labor Day Weekend: Tulsa Security Task Force, a leading provider of armed private security services in the Tulsa metro, announced today that it will be increasing patrols throughout Tulsa, Owasso, Broken Arrow, and Collinsville over the upcoming Labor Day holiday weekend.

The Labor Day weekend often brings an increase in traffic, travel, and public gatherings, which can create opportunities for theft, trespassing, and vandalism. Tulsa Security Task Force is committed to helping protect local neighborhoods, apartment communities, shopping centers, and business districts during this busy holiday period.

“Our mission is to provide a visible deterrent and ensure peace of mind for residents and business owners,” said James Dodson, Director of Tulsa Security Task Force. “By patrolling in key areas across Tulsa, Owasso, Broken Arrow, and Collinsville, we aim to reduce crime and provide an extra layer of security when people need it most.”

The agency’s armed patrol officers, including off-duty police officers, will conduct roving vehicle patrols and rapid response checks throughout the weekend. Businesses and property managers are encouraged to reach out to request coverage or coordinate additional patrol stops for their locations.
